Redevelopment Denies Mini Bike Track

A proposal presented to Seaside's Redevelopment Agency by Jimmy Roy, Program Administrator for Young Adults For Action, to allow a mini-bike track to be developed in the barren weed-infested area known as the Gateway Project, was denied by the Agency.

Very bitter about the decision, Roy stated that if Young Adults For Action represented the affluent middle class segment the proposal would have been accepted with no dissent, but since "... we represent the low-income and in some instances no-income people of the community, we have to fight twice as hard for our children."

In Roy's presentation, he thoroughly covered the legal ramifications that might be involved and requested the Agency to approach the Automobile Association "for their approval to let the land used for something rather than allow it to go to waste as it is."

Roy mentioned the fact that he was not asking the Agency to breach any of its contractual agreements with the Association, but mentioned "... they have not abided by their original agreement to put the land to use."

Roy suggested that the Agency assign their legal advisor (Saul Weingarten) to make whatever necessary amendments needed to legalize the transaction, but he added "... whenever a variance of any kind of ordinance is needed, if it is to the advantage of the rich, it is granted."

It was brought out in the meeting that Young Adults For Action has been concerned about the safety of the kids for over a year. They first presented their proposal to the City Council last July.

The heart of the proposal read, in part: "Y.A.F.A. respectfully propose that Seaside is in dire need of suitable facilities where the impending hazard will be minimized. We feel that this is a need that cannot be overlooked. We feel this is a situation which deserves immediate attention because of the fact that exists of the possibility of our youth becoming maimed for life or worse ... fatally injured."

Roy insists the time has arrived when the poor people of Seaside will have to stand together and make it known to all of the officials of the city, both elected and appointed, that "we are tired of being ignored in our requests for improvements in our community."

"It is obvious," Roy stated "that we are not going to be considered in the development of Seaside unless we speak up and be heard, in unity. One or two people can't do it alone."

Roy continued "if we want anything for our kids in this town, we're going to have to mobilize our forces and let the hand picked policy makers of Seaside know what we want and we won't stop short of getting it."

The Gateway Project is that fenced-in acreage along Fremont Boulevard that is idle with "nothing growing except weeds."

"Mini-bikes," Roy said "are perfect for that area, the relation to automobiles is very significant and would actually be an asset to the business already located there."

Young Adults For Action is a local, non-profit organization designed to work with and help solve arising community problems through positive efforts. This organization is well known throughout the Peninsula for its self-help efforts in meeting the many problems of people of all races. Their offices are located at 445 Palm Avenue, in Seaside, 372-4595.

Volunteer Program Reactivated

Non-profit organizations in need of volunteer help may find the persons they need at Monterey Peninsula College, Pearly Pearson new chairman of MPC's Student Volunteerism Program, has announced.

The program, which supplied 79 non-paid helpers to 38 organizations during 1970, is now being reactivated.

Current requests for which Pearson, himself a student, is trying to find "just the right students" are for a teacher's aide or tutor, singer, guitarist and Spanish interpreter. When subsequent calls for help come from organizations, he said, he will similarly try to "match job with helper."

Student Activities Advisor Ed Norris emphasized that the program operated on a "referral" basis.

Pearson may be reached at the college at 375-9821, extension 326.

NOW OPEN - Of special interest to sportsmen and motorists is new $1000,000 Automotive and Sporting Goods Center, which had its grand opening Friday at MBS Discount Center, 1951 Fremont Boulevard in Seaside. Rich Scharnow, (right) manager of new department, and Ira Nagel, president and owner of MBS, inspect newest sporting goods equipment which is available at center. In addition to top quality auto accessories and car products, MBS now offers famous brand equipment for all sports at discount prices. Local landmark since 1954, MBS has consistently brought quality merchandise at lower prices to community.

Bids Are Opened For Route 1 Job

Bids were opened this week in Sacramento for a major freeway project on Highway 1 between San City and Marina through Fort Ord.

Milburn Construction Company and McAdoo White Company, Inc., a joint venture of Riverside, submitted the apparent low bids of $5,679,525.30. There were four bids in all.

The proposed project calls for construction of 4.3 miles of 6-lane divided freeway including two major interchanges and three freeway crossings and relocation of 5.6 miles of Southern Pacific Company and U. S. Army railroad track.

For approximately one-third of its length, the northbound and southbound roadways of the freeway will be widely separated.

Provision for an ultimate 8-lane facility is an integral part of the design.

The project is unique in that it involves both large landowners, namely, the U. S. Army on the east and the Southern Pacific Company on the west. Both of these ownerships retain emergency access rights.

The project has been in design for more than 10 years, and coordinated planning between the Army, the Southern Pacific Company and the Division of Highways has been extensive. Mr. Kenneth W. Jones, project design engineer also designed the Monterey Freeway just to the south. Jones estimated that construction will take a full two years, with completion expected in the summer of 1973.

The contractor must provide full 4-lane detours (two lanes northbound and two lanes southbound) at all times and these will be equal to or better than the present 4-lane conventional highway which is being replaced.

Senior Center Is Given Furniture

Just in time for the month of May, which is Senior Citizens' Month on the Monterey Peninsula, as well as all over the country, two generous benefactors gave a lovely and needed gift of lounge furniture to the residents of the Villa Del Monte in Seaside.

The gift includes a matching sofa, two easy chairs and ottoman.

The donors were The Seaside Seniors Association and Mr. Ed Battle of Battle's Furniture Store in Seaside.

At a ceremony held recently at the Villa Activity Center, Mrs. Dan Niel, member of the Seaside Seniors and widow of one of the original founders of the Senior Citizens Housing concept and Mr. Ted Korsvold, President of the Seaside Seniors, as well as Mrs. Battle, formally presented the gift to the Villa residents.

Receiving the donation on behalf of all the residents were Mrs. Florence Green and Mrs. Melvin Shaw, the first residents to move into the spacious apartment project when it opened for occupancy last September.

OpenHouse at Senior Center

May is Senior Citizens Month throughout the nation with hundreds of senior citizens organizations participating with a month-long open house.

The Monterey County Anti-Poverty Coordinating Council Senior Citizens Programs, which had its start in 1970, currently operates senior citizens drop-in offices in Seaside, Marina, Monterey, Soledad, Salinas, Castrolville and Pajaro with a total enrollment of 300 senior citizens.

Some of the free services offered at the senior offices include educational and cultural tours, transportation and visiting service.

The public is invited to drop-in at any senior office, particularly during the month of May—National Senior Citizens Month.

Retirement Is Time to Use Well

With this month being designate Senior Citizens' Month by President Nixon, the Seaside Senior Citizen Organization wants to remind all seniors that they may be missing out if they are only trying to find entertainment to fill their retirement years.

After stepping out of routine jobs, there is time to discover talent which they may not be fully aware of. Age is no factor in discovering this talent, when the demands of a daily job are not pressuring a person.

During retirement years, a person can explore new areas of human endeavor and no longer need to be haunted by the fear of failure.

The responsibilities of the elderly are greater in this decade than ever before. There are also more opportunities than ever for seniors.

The last week in March, Pablo Casals conducted the New York Philharmonic Orchestra in a stirring performance. The only concession he made to his 93 years of age was that he conducted the orchestra from a chair. Grandma Moses became most famous as a painter at 80 years. Michaelangelo painted the ceiling of the Sistine Chapel—considered the world's greatest piece of art—after a lifetime of working with stone at the age of 87. Tennyson at age 80 wrote "Passing the Bar." Verde wrote "Ave Maria" at age 85.

There are many, though, who go through life without knowing their "God-given" potential, even with retirement time to discover it.

The evening will be highlighted by the performance of the Uptights Band, who will back the groups and then play for dancing.

Proceeds from the night will go to Y.A.F.A.'s 70/30 Scholarship fund which is designed to help students help themselves in school.

Sculpture Show at Beachcomber

Mr. and Mrs. Max Miller, owners of the Beachcomber Inn on Sunset Drive, are sponsoring a one-man show of the sculpture of Richard C. Snyder at the Inn through May 30.

This will be the first showing of Mr. Snyder's work on the Peninsula. On view will be sculpture in marble, bronze, wood, stone and copper.

Mr. Snyder moved to the Peninsula last fall from San Diego, where he has several commissioned works.

MPC Offers Variety During Summer

Some 75 academic and vocational courses to be offered in Monterey Peninsula College's 1971 summer session are listed in a brochure now available on request in the MPC administration building, according to Dr. Keith Merrill, dean of community education.

The program, which starts June 21, includes six-and-eight-week courses in the areas of anthropology, art, astronomy, aviation, biology, black studies, business, chemistry, data processing, drama, economics, electronics, English, ethnic studies (The American Indian Experience), foreign languages (elementary French, German and Spanish), geography, geology, health, history, hotel-restaurant institutional (summer internship), humanities, mathematics, medical assisting, music, ornamental horticulture, philosophy, photography, physical education (golf, tennis and swimming), political science, psychology, real estate, school lunch management, sociology and speech.

Particularly emphasized are courses and institutes in art and drama, including a beginning course in ceramics and institutes in design, drawing, painting and tapestry; and courses in play production, acting, theater arts and film. A new summer offering is a credit-earning work experience program.

Advance mail registration, designed to save both students and the college from a last-minute rush, runs through June 3.

Application forms are contained in the brochures.

Seaside Girl Named Winner Of Award

Two high school seniors each have been awarded a $4,000 four-year college scholarship by Pacific Gas and Electric Company for outstanding scholastic and community achievement.

They are Yulanda Nami Davis of Seaside High School and Benita Louise Low of North Salinas High School.

Miss Davis, daughter of Master Sergeant and Mrs. Warner Lafayette Davis, 1970 Military Avenue, was one of six seniors from high schools throughout Northern and Central California competing for two special recognition scholarships for achievement in spite of disadvantages.

Miss Low, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred G. Low, 1777-33 Vierra Canyon Road, Salinas, won over two other candidates for a scholarship designated for schools in Coast Valleys Division.

The company awarded 16 scholarships in its $64,000 annual competition. The scholarship will begin with the 1971-72 academic year for study at any university or college in the United States she chooses.

The runner-up for the division scholarship each were awarded five shares of PG&E stock. They are Marian Eleanor Braverman, Salinas High School, daughter of Prof. and Mrs. Howard Braverman, 777 College Drive, Salinas, and Anne Louise Fontaine, Coast Joint Union High School, Cambria. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald J. Fontaine, 2275 Cass Avenue, Cayucos, San Luis Obispo County.

Presentation of awards was made by PG&E president Sermer L. Sibley at a dinner in San Francisco's Fairmont Hotel where all 16 scholarship winners and 32 runners-up were honored.

This is the fifth year of the scholarship program established in memory of James B. Black, the company's late board chairman.

An outstanding athlete as well as student, Benita Low has honors including National Merit Scholarship, California Scholarship Federation, National Honor Society, Outstanding Teenager of America Award, student council representative, senior class treasurer. She was voted the North Salinas High student most likely to succeed in a senior poll. She also has been a team member in basketball, volleyball, tennis, softball and badminton.

She plans to major in liberal arts for a career in teaching and public relations.

Miss Davis, who will be 18 on May 13, has been accepted by the University of Southern California, where she will enroll as a pre-medical student. At Seaside High, Miss Davis won a California Scholarship Federation life membership and was president of the French Club. She also plays piano and guitar, is a volunteer Red Cross worker and does oil paintings.

While her father, a career Army man, was stationed in the Far East, Yulanda had the experience of attending ninth grade at the International School in Bangkok, Thailand.

HRD would ultimately handle all Job Bank data in its own Sacramento computers, Sheffield added.

Job Banks issue daily computer print-outs of all employment opportunities known to HRD within a given geographic area. HRD interviewers use print-outs to potential positions for which they are qualified, Sheffield explained.

He said that the San Diego HRD office publishes some 180 copies of the Job Bank print-out each morning, and it is expected that Fresno will issue 105, Bakersfield another 130, and San Jose 130. Copies are rushed by messenger to every HRD office within a given Job Bank area, as well as to numerous participating governmental agencies and organizations.

"Because of its great speed and geographic range, the Job Bank system actually benefits disadvantaged job-hunters more than any other single group," he said.

Job Banks Program Is Expanding

A top Reagan Administration official announced recently three California cities would have computerized Job

Banks installed and in operation by June 1.

The official, Gilbert L. Sheffield, director of the State Department of Human Resources Development (HRD), said the new Job Banks would be installed in Bakersfield, Fresno and San Jose.

Sheffield said a successful trial run of the Job Bank system, which ultimately will cover most of the State, has been in operation in San Diego since late 1969.

He said the Job Banks, which are to be operated by HRD, would "provide faster and better coordinated job placement service to both employers and applicants seeking jobs."

We expect them (the Job Banks) to be a major factor in shortening periods of unemployment and broadening available job opportunities," Sheffield added.

Sheffield simultaneously announced that contracts of $875,000 have been signed with computer firms covering the three new cities as well as San Diego: Electromec Design and Development Co. in San Jose, Computer Synergy in Fresno and Bakersfield and San Diego State College in San Diego.

Publisher's Report Seaside Ripples

A. E. 'Andy' Barragan, Publisher

How an appointed agency of the city can rule the lives of the citizens of that community through their rulings and actions was amply proven at a meeting of the Seaside Urban Renewal Agency held last week.

The agency, upon the advice of their appointed attorney Saul Weingarten, said no to three separate requests to use the vacant land in the Gateway Auto Center. Even though the streets in the Auto Center belong to the city Weingarten pointed out legal technicalities that said that the center should be used for "automotive purposes." These requests were to allow this empty land to be used by and for the people. One was to stage a carnival for two days on July 3 and 4 in an effort to draw more people into Seaside to enjoy the 4th of July Parade.

The second request was from the Young Adults for Action to allow them to run a mini-bike track to keep the youngsters off of the streets where they can be killed. YAFA has been after the city for a long time to get help in obtaining land for the mini-bike track but their requests have been to no avail so far.

The third request was for a few hours use to stage an Armed Forces Day Rally prior to a demonstration at Fort Ord.

As the agency members themselves stated at the meeting, all three of these requests have merit, but they turned all three of them down flat in one motion on the advice of their attorney who happens to be the same attorney that was recently fired by the city. In turning down the requests, the Urban Renewal Agency took

HEAD CUSTODIAN at Ord Terrace Elementary School in Seaside, George Smith, was honored last week by California Parent Teachers Association with life-time membership. Mr. Smith, who has been at Ord Terrace School for last five years, gained recognition for his counseling work with youngsters at school. He lives in Seaside with his wife, Lulu Mae. They have two children - George, 17, senior at Seaside High and Lauretta, 21, in her third year at Cal-Poly.

Grooving Around the Peninsula

with BETTY MANN

Hi There, Fellow Peninsulans:

Happiness is being a member of Weight Watchers and losing ten pounds in one week without starving (smiles). Unhappiness is knowing that the Monterey school board has seen fit to approve an alternative school to be located in the Del Rey Oaks section of Seaside, although 65 percent of the students who will be attending the school live outside of the Seaside area. This alternative school is another of those experimental programs in which Seaside is used as the "guinea pig."

This school will not serve a number of black and other minority children because it will be too far for many of them to walk and their parents will not be able to find some other means of transportation. The alternative school promises to offer different academic subjects to children than are available in the regular classrooms. However, the most interesting thing is that it is patterned after the British Infancy school that has failed miserably in England. And now we are going to have it in our area? ? ?

With all this money being tossed around so easily, I wonder if the Monterey School Board is going to retain the four black community school leaders, which Seaside was paying or will they be "shined on", as usual, to join the ranks of the unemployed here in Monterey County, where the majority are blacks (shame).

As you may recall, in my column two weeks ago I said that there were two black bus drivers (out of 35 total) employed by the MPUSD. Well, sorry to say, I must make a retraction. Since that time, those two token drivers have been fired!!! Now there are no black bus drivers working for MPUSD.

I also learned this past week that Seaside High School does have a switchboard class, which has been going on for the last month. Orchids to Seaside High on a step in the right direction for our youngsters.

It was also interesting, but sad, to learn that several black (and white as well) administrators, who were asked to accept the principalship of certain target area schools for the summer session, refused the job!!! Tch, tch. I wonder what so many of our black teachers are thinking about when only four were interested enough to volunteer to teach summer school in the target area elementary schools, while others elected to wait for the usual assignments made by MPUSD? ? ? Where does their concern and interest lie. Are they depending on the "fair weather liberals" to carry the torch of wisdom and learning to our black and minority children. As a concerned parent and member of the ESEA advisory board I am concerned about the target area schools and the quality of their programs, which are sponsored by ESEA. I will continue to probe because of the seeming complacency and distaste shown by the city of Seaside and its residents. Many questions will be asked about the conditions in Seaside at our next ESEA advisory board meeting later this month.

(Two weeks ago I also said there was only one black counselor at Seaside High. Since then I have been informed that there are two black counselors.)

Until next week,

Betty.

Garden Tour Church Will Be Held May 19

The eighteenth annual Pebble Beach - Carmel house and garden tour will be held Wednesday, May 19, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., according to Mrs. Joe L. Farrow, general chairman.

A highlight of the eleven garden, five interior tour will be the formal garden of the Edwin J. Bedells on Stillwater Cove in Pebble Beach. Bedell, a noted camellia horticulturist, has designed a garden featuring camellias transplanted from his Sacramento home, with a tulip and yellow rhododendron terraced backdrop for a reflecting pool and classical Italian sculpture.

Among the Carmel cottages included on the tour is the Comstock built, English-styled home of Col. and Mrs. Joseph R. Reeves, complete with a primrose lane and a wishing well.

Carmel Meadows resident, Mrs. Ruth Buol, an enamel jewel designer, will open her workshop for the garden tour. Other gardens and interiors on display will be those of Mrs. Phillips Norton Davis of Carmel, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Sletton of Carmel, Mrs. Richard R. Towley of Pebble Beach and Mr. and Mrs. Lincoln Gould of Pebble Beach.

Opening their gardens will be Mrs. Fred Cottle of Carmel, Mrs. E.C. Singleton of Pebble Beach and Mr. and Mrs. Stuart A. Work of Pebble Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Bacquet of Carmel Meadows will display their interior only. The garden tour tickets include the tea at the Work's home and the 17 Mile Drive gate fee.

Tickets are available from Monterey Peninsula Volunteer Services members or by mailing a check or money order to: MPVS, P.O. Box 2004, Carmel 93921.

Tickets will be available at the gardens and the 17 Mile Drive gates the day of the tour.

FIELD TRIP - Seventy-five children from sixth grades at Highland and Ord Terrace Schools spent one week of school-- April 19 to 23-- at Redwood Christian Camp near Santa Cruz. They learned firsthand about nature studies, outdoor living, plant and animal identification, conservation and ecology. They were also given classes in math, first-aid, swimming and art. Supervising kids were Mrs. Mary Hobson and Michael Collin of Highland School and Bill Furst from Ord Terrace School.

Values of Youth is Lecture Topic

Leonard Epstein, popular Monterey Peninsula College humanities and English instructor, will appear as the third speaker in "Operation Update," the American Association of University Women/MPC-sponsored series of free lectures for all women of the area.

With "The Changing Values of Youth" as his theme, Epstein will start his lecture at 10 a.m. today in the All Saints' Episcopal Church parish house, Lincoln and Ninth Streets, Carmel.

"Youth" is a topic on which Epstein could be considered an expert. Since joining the MPC faculty in fall, 1969, he has established a reputation among students for promoting intellectual "exploration" in a number of directions.

Founder of the University for Man locally - as he was at Kansas State University before coming here - he also initiated the continuing police-student dialogues at MPC "to promote better understanding between the two groups."

The Monterey resident is a 1960 graduate of San Francisco State College, earned his master's degree there in 1961, and did graduate work toward a doctorate at Stanford University and Kansas State University.

At Kansas State, where he taught humanities for several years, he was named "Distinguished Personality of 1969."

Epstein's lecture will be followed by a coffee break and question-answer session ending at noon.

A baby-sitting service will be provided for "Update" participants desiring it.

on unprecedented powers by denying the city its right to use the vacant land in the Gateway Project.

What kind of government do we have here in Seaside when an appointed committee can tell the people of Seaside what they may or may not do. In turning down the request for a carnival on July 3 or 4, the Urban Renewal Agency was again telling the people of Seaside that it was a power unto itself. What the requestors should have done was to refer the request to the city council who could have made a decision based upon the feelings of the entire community. The land in the Gateway Project has been used for Christmas tree sales, barbecues and even fireworks sales in the past.

Why were these requests denied at this time? We have pointed out time and again how boards and commissions APPOINTED by one man - in this case Mayor Haddad, can rule the lives of all of the citizens of any city. In the past, Mayor Haddad, with his legal technicalities, supplied by his own city attorney, Saul Weingarten, was able to hold a one-man rule in this city. Now his Urban Renewal Agency is continuing that rule by "legal technicality" with the self-same attorney making the rulings. The voters of Seaside will have an opportunity on June 1 to vote on whether an appointed body should be given that power or should that power be in the hands of elected officials who have to answer to the citizens of Seaside. This abuse of appointed power will help us make up our minds.

A subject which needs more open discussion in the news media and in public forums is the subject of alcoholism. Alcoholism destroys more lives each year than the combination of traffic, war and disease. I don't just mean the deaths that occur from alcoholism and drunken driving. I mean the wasted lives of those who suffer from a drinking problem and most importantly the lives of those loved ones who also suffer from the drinking problem of a father, mother, brother, sister, husband or wife. In recent years the subject has been brought into the open more and more. The government, after many years of hiding their heads in the sand about this scourge on humanity, is finally recognizing that there must be a massive effort made if we are to eradicate this disease.

There is an organization right here on the peninsula which is leading the fight against alcoholism. This is the Monterey Council on Alcoholism. The women's division of the council together with the Alamo Club, a social club for the recovered alcoholic, is sponsoring a LUAU. This will be held on Saturday, May 29, at the Fairgrounds. This won't be just an ordinary run-of-the-mill LUAU. The tickets will be $20; $7.50 of which is tax deductible. For this donation there will be a Mai-Tai hour (free drinks), dinner, leis, and Hawaiian, Samoan, Tahitian and Polynesian entertainment. Besides the entertainment, the food is just fabulous. They will serve puua kalua, maia, moa and laiki, hala kahiki, pome-pome, poi and haupia. In other words, the dinner will have underground whole roast pig, baked bananas, chicken and long grain rice, sweet pineapple, salmon and coconut pudding. Lava rocks are being brought in just for the roasting of the pigs. All will be done in true Hawaiian style by experts.

General chairman of the event is "Ty" Gillis, fourth generation descendent of a famed Hawaiian family. "Ty" has put on many of these famous LUAUs. Most recently she hosted one for Navy Relief that served over 1,000 guests.

I could go on for two more pages describing the elaborate plans that are being made for the enjoyment of the guests, but suffice it to say that it is being done in a grand manner. You won't be disappointed. I know that $20 seems like a lot of money, but about half of it is going to fight alcoholism. I couldn't believe the preparations that have to go on weeks in advance to put on an authentic LUAU.

Tickets may be obtained by calling ticket chairman Mrs. Richard Sippel at 624-1788 or stopping by at the office, 575 Calle Principal, Monterey.

Q. My father was placed in a nursing home following a 10 day stay in a hospital. He was discharged to our home after a week's stay in the nursing home. Now the doctor says that the will have to return to the nursing home for further care. Will Medicare continue to pay extended care benefits A. A beneficiary may continue to receive extended care benefits if he is readmitted to the same extended care facility or any other participating facility within a period of 14 days after his discharge. In fact, a Medicare beneficiary is deemed not to have been discharged from the extended care facility in this case. However, if the beneficiary is out of the extended care facility for more than 14 days, a return directly to the extended care facility is not covered by Medicare. This benefit would be payable again only if it became medically necessary for the beneficiary to go into a hospital for at least 3 days. The extended care benefit is not a general nursing home benefit. For example, if your father's condition improves enough for him to return home, but he decided to continue living in a nursing home, Medicare would stop paying for his care there.

Q. Please clarify a "benefit period" under Medicare. I had just recovered from a case of shingles for which I was hospitalized. Now my doctor wants me to return to the hospital in two weeks for gall bladder surgery. Since this is a new illness, will I have to pay another $60 deductible? A. First of all, a "benefit period" is the period of time by which Medicare counts your use of benefit days. It does not mean a particular illness, nor does it mean a single stay in the hospital. In each "benefit period" your hospital insurance pays for all covered services for up to 90 days. However, you must pay the first $60, in each "benefit period" and $15 a day from the 61st to 90th day. In your case, you will not have to pay another $60 deductible unless it has been a full 60 days since you were an in-patient in a hospital or extended care facility. Assuming you re-enter the hospital during this 60-day period you will, of course, be entitled to have your hospital care paid only for that portion of the 90 days you did not use in your previous hospital stay.

Letter To The Editor

Editor: I would like to make a few comments concerning Betty Mann's column, Grooving Around the Peninsula, in your April 22 issue, in which she made quite a few statements about the schools here in Seaside.

I'm a sophomore now attending Seaside High School and I have also attended King Jr. High for three years.

Miss Mann made this statement: "Our children need more emphasis on basic education and academic skills." She was right on about that. But then she stated, "...and since most children who attend King are either blacks or from other minority groups, I am sure that the board could find another subject to offer which would be more beneficial and up to date than cooking."

I'm sure that these kids who attend King who want to take more beneficial courses and really want to get something out of going to school, would not take the course. But there are others who would enjoy taking it and they too may want to get something out of their education. Well, right on to them; it's their choice. Most students agree that they would like to take more courses of their own choice rather than having their parents choose their courses; after all they're the ones who have to take them.

Then, moving on, she said, "If you are fortunate, or should I say unfortunate, to have a child who attends Seaside High, then don't expect a first class education at all. This group of students is at a total loss." Since I am one of the students in the group, I should at least be the one to say something about it. In fact, I have a perfect right to, by the way.

"BULL!" Miss Mann isn't attending Seaside High this year, so she doesn't have anything to say on the subject at all. I feel that I am getting a very good education at Seaside High and there's little doubt in my mind that the other kids are too.

Then as a last straw, she finally went on to say, "But if you are black and you don't attend Monterey High, then you don't get a chance to take broadening courses, such as Oceanography because, undoubtedly, the counselors feel that that all blacks and minorities and disadvantaged are dumb."

To that ignorant statement, I can only say that I am white, and I could not get into the course, which I really felt I wanted to take at the beginning of the year. So I don't understand what all the stupid gripe she's putting out in her so-called column is all about. I feel that an apology to the students of Seaside High and all students or persons which were offended by her remarks should be made by her.

Sincerely yours;

Robert Lamar

Who Cares

By Mel Vercoe

Some of the older readers may remember the good old days during prohibition, when the moonshiners making illegal booze out in the hills were under constant harassment from the internal revenue boys of their day - the prohibition agents. There were three general areas of friction. The booze had to be produced. It had to be transported. It had to be sold.

Getting it from Canada helped a little bit. It was already made. But then it had to be run illegally across the border, which made for even more excitement, complete with gun battles and such things as planks full of spikes that could be pulled across roads to puncture the tires of old touring cars carrying illegal booze.

But it did help the country in a way or maybe several ways. It gave newspapers a lot of interesting material. It provided employment for government officials as well as bootleggers, and it was a step towards acquainting our society with the sad fact that there are some things that simply cannot be legislated out of existence.

Now we learn from Associated Press that the Bureau of Narcotics is giving the Agriculture Department $85,000 to embark on a program to eradicate marijuana growing wild in 10 different states. Not planted marijuana, whatever that looks like, but wild marijuana that some circles concerned with the environment might argue was put there for some purpose by none other than God, himself.

So now we are going to embark on a crusade to prove that God must have been mistaken, assuming that he was the guilty party who planted all that marijuana out there where one of the more intelligent of earth's life species might find it and use it for a purpose unbefitting our present-day puritanical standards. There are some, perhaps, who could point out that the whole problem could be solved by legalizing the stuff, so we could tax it properly. This would put God in the clear with the law, and besides, we could use the tax money to pursue our Asian Crusade, which has already been clearly established as a proper puritanical endeavor.

And speaking of crusades, I find it interesting that we now have crusades to stop crusades, something after the fashion of the Emperor Alexius of Constantinople trying to stop the 12th century crusaders from killing and raping and robbing so many of his people while supposed to be trying to save them from the Turks. And, in a way it was Alexius's fault. He had appealed to Pope Urban the Second for help to save the holy land, but his main interest was in saving his throne, so we can't feel too sorry for him, just as we can't really feel too sorry for our nation, which embarked on a senseless crusade of genocide and is now finding its own crusade blow-

Editor: At our last council meeting (Thursday, April 22,) Mayor Haddad, being his normal egotistical, overbearing self, had to throw what started out to be one of our best meetings into a near riot with his know-it-all attitude and insulting remarks. The Council members are to be commended on the way they conducted themselves and answered the questions presented to them by the Human Relations Committee. The Human Relations Committee is outstanding and I believe in a position to do a lot of good for the Community and should have the complete backing of every citizen in Seaside. I noticed that when the Committee began asking Mr. Sutton and Mr. Hoss questions about the Gateway and Redevelopment Projects, it became a "hoss" of a different color in that they either were unable or would not give anything but evasive answers, and the answers gave by the City Manager were just as confusing. I think right now Seaside should have a Grand Jury investigation of the Redevelopment Agency -- especially the Gateway Project. Maybe then it will clear many doubts in our minds and Haddad might resign. If I were Mr. Haddad, I would not forget the statement of Mr. Ross to the effect that if things continue as they are presently going, it could very well lead to bloodshed, but he hopes it never comes to that. Some of the City officials would have you believe that Seaside is on the verge of a racial revolt, which is completely untrue. Such officials are only trying to confuse and divide the poor black and white because they know that if we join together, we have strength, and we might demand our rightful representation. Think it over before the next election. Let's keep our present Council, but one more unrestricted term for Haddad and he might retire with a mortgage on City Hall!

William C. May
1092 Highland Street
Seaside

Editor: Seaside's future is at stake. Even the electoral process is being exploited in this conspiracy (see paragraph 4). When Mr. Haddad challenges the right of any councilman to serve except as his subordinate ("denying me the authority normally given the Mayor", said Haddad), he questions every loyalty and conviction but his own. In the past year he has challenged every vote in this city that has not served his interests or his purposes. Thank God the Mayor did not get away with his infamous bluff of forcing resignations from the Council last year.

His demand for a cooperative (delivered) council is a fraud and a power grab contrary to State Constitutional Law, Article 5, section 34903 states as follows: "The Mayor is a member of the city council and has all of the powers and duties of a member of the city council". No more, no less.

Citizens of Seaside must speak loud and clear. This recall could be your last chance to renounce a determined effort to destroy a basic institution of government. A recall for documented cause is a proper use of the recall process. A recall for disruptive purposes is a deliberate subversion of representative government.

About 1200 persons are political debtors to corrupt loyalties. They may be too deeply in debt to rethink their duties to themselves or their community. The past year has been a horror story of intrigue, harassment and civic subversion. It takes 2500 to elect and only 800 to 1200 to destroy. In cities of low voter participation like Seaside the electoral process becomes the prey of instant anarchists. Destruction has been the order of the day for one whole year and two special elections.

In the name of your own right to vote, REGISTER to vote. Banish finally the conspiracy of 1970-71 from Seaside. Register no later than today (May 6) it will be your last chance to vote June 28.

Respectfully,

s/OLIVER F. MURRAY
City Councilman
Seaside, Calif.

Editor: This is an open letter to the Editor of the Seaside Community News.

Some of your recent articles in the Seaside Community News attacking the four Seaside Councilmen have been laced with half-truths and slanderous remarks. The Mayor claims that he has been attacked by the Seaside newspaper, but I know that the editor of that newspaper keeps an open door for the mayor to meet him face to face.

The Seaside Councilmen would like to invite you to let us meet Obie Jackson, your editorial writer, fact to face in order that we might discuss many of the statements that appear in his column.

I am sending a copy of this letter to the Seaside POST News-Sentinel in order that the entire community may be aware that there are two sides to every story. Every man has the right to face his accuser, will you deny us this right.

Very Truly Yours

GERALD McGRATH
City Councilman
Seaside

(Editor Note: Although it may not always seem so, the columns of the Seaside POST are now and always have been open to Mayor Lou Haddad and his followers. We personally have asked him time and again to submit material for publication. We promised that it would be printed. However, he and his cohorts wanted a political propaganda sheet to carry out their recall. That is why they brought in Harold DeLine and his Marina Community News.)

Bill Can End Killing of Mammals

Americans revolted by the massacre of baby harp seals, the threatened extinction of whales and the killing of polar bears have a golden opportunity to translate their justifiable outrage into direct action.

An incensed citizenry can strike a telling blow against the brutality and needless slaughter by writing their representatives in Congress, demanding they vote for the Harris-Pryor Bill of Rights for Ocean Mammals.

Jointly sponsored by Sen. Fred R. Harris (D-Okla.) and Rep. David Pryor (D-Ark.), the Bill would:

* Make it a criminal offense for any American to kill seals, polar bears, whales, sea lions, walrus or any other ocean mammal.

* Ban the importation into the United States of all products from ocean mammals, thus removing the economic incentive for their slaughter.

* Phase out the seal kill on our Pribilof Islands without abrogating the current treaty with Japan and Canada. The United States now agrees to kill seals on land for those two countries in exchange for which they prohibit their nationals from killing seals in the open waters. The treaty, which expires in 1976, gives Japan and Canada the option of accepting their shares in the annual kill in dollars -- as they have done in past years or, if they insist upon the skins, the Aleuts will kill 18,000 seals for them each year until 1976.

* Direct the United States State Department to initiate a truly international treaty in which all countries agree to stop killing ocean mammals, both on land and at sea.

The Governments of the United States and Canada must be told by their employers --- the public --- that barbarity which stuns the minds and sickens the hearts of all decent people must be outlawed.

Now is the time to push for passage of the Harris-Pryor Bill --- which bans slaughtering the 42,000 seals usually clubbed for the supposed benefit of the U.S. Treasury --- before the next Pribilof kill begins the end of June.

A copy of the Harris-Pryor Bill may be obtained by writing Friends of Animals, 11 West 60th Street, New York, N.Y. 10023.

Seaside Girl Performs in Army Show

Specialist 5 Monika Bailey, daughter of Mrs. and Mrs. Edward H. Bailey of Seaside, is singing a new song in the Army. It's "Over There", America's tribute to her doughboys. Monika sang it when she appeared in "Prelude to Taps," the Army's contribution to the National Cherry Blossom Festival.

The show, which ran from March 29 to April 10, attracted more than 45,000 people last year including President and Mrs. Nixon.

With a cast of more than 900, it is one of the largest indoor, theatrical productions in the country.

"Prelude" features historical pageantry, military skills and precision drill performed by the elite 1st Battalion (Reinforced), 3rd Infantry (The Old Guard) together with the stirring music of the United States Army Band and Chorus.

Monika plays a World War I sweetheart who arrives dockside just in time to bid farewell to her beau as he departs for Europe. Through a series of vignettes such as this, the momentous events and accomplishments of our nation's past and present are related.

A 1968 graduate of Monterey High School, Monika entered the Army in March 1969 and took her basic training at Fort McClellan, Alabama. She is currently serving as a clerk-typist with the Office of Personnel Operations in the Pentagon.

This is the 11th annual production of "Prelude to Taps" which has become an exciting tradition for the thousands of tourists who flock to the Nation's capital for the Cherry Blossom Festival.

Navy Needs Electronics Technicians

Civilian electronics technicians are being offered advanced pay grades and guaranteed schooling for enlisting for four years, the Director of Naval Recruiting announced recently.

In an instruction to all recruiting activities, Rear Adm. William M. A. Greene established Phase One of the Electronics Technician Direct Procurement Petty Officer Pilot Program. This phase provides for the enlistment of 500 men at pay grade E-3 and guaranteed schooling after 11 weeks of recruit training.

Following successful completion of the 12-week electronics technician school, individuals will automatically be advanced to ET3 and, if necessary, assigned additional schooling lasting from two to twelve weeks.

Promotion to the petty officer third class level within 23 weeks is extremely rapid; the average time for this promotion is one year.

Qualifications for this program include being between 17 and 31 years old; have either an associate degree from an accredited institution of higher education with at least 20 semester hours with grades of "C" or above, or have graduated from an electronics vocational school associated with the National Association of Trade and Technical Schools. Individuals must be U.S. citizens.

According to Adm. Greene, the program was established "... to test the concept that Navy training costs may be significantly reduced by increasing the use of the training capabilities of civilian schools. If this pilot program proves effective for the ET rating, consideration will be given to expanding the concept for use in other ratings."

Individuals interested in this program, should be their Navy Recruiter for further information.

Golf Tourney To Aid Youth

The first "Golf for Youth Classic," sponsored by the Monterey County Anti-Poverty Coordinating Council, is scheduled to be conducted Saturday, June 26, at the Laguna Seca Golf Course.

The classic is designed to raise funds which will be used to establish schools scholarships with the hope of assisting students from low income families in continuing their education.

John Mathis, Executive Director of the Anti-Poverty Council, said that scholarships will be established at Monterey Peninsula College and Hartnell College in Salinas and that a youth board, consisting of young students, will determine what persons will qualify for the assistance and how the funds will be distributed for the two community colleges.

MPC Paper Wins Award

Monterey Peninsula College's student newspaper, El Yanqui, was awarded first prize for "general excellence" at the April 23-25 conference of the Journalism Association of Junior Colleges in Bakersfield.

MPC journalism instructor Rod Holmgren said he was particularly pleased with the award because it showed a "successful" transition from the "hot type" letterpress printing method to "cold type" offset in producing El Yanqui.

Attending the conference, in addition to Holmgren, were Mark Thompson, managing editor of El Yanqui; Steve Polzer, news editor; Wanell Frank, feature editor and Josey Hollins, sports editor.

cluded among the titles in the poetry section at the MPC bookstore.

Referring to a bestiary as, by tradition, illustrated prose or verse relating to imaginary or fabled animals, art critic Alfred Frankenstein wrote: "Irene Lagorio and Dennis Francis have restored the bestiary...With them the beast is that most beastly of living creatures, Man."

Long active as a creative artist, Irene Lagorio has exhibited her work at the Whitney Museum of American Art and the Metropolitan Museum in New York.

She has won numerous awards and honors, the most recent being the "best of show" award in the Seventh Annual Monterey Peninsula

Museum of Art Competitive Painting Exhibition. She was formerly director of the Achenbach Foundation for Graphic Arts, California Palace of the Legion of Honor Museum, San Francisco.

Francis, who attended Oakland City College, San Francisco State College and UC-Berkeley, has had his poems published in such literary magazines as the Southwest Times Record, Tampa Poetry Review, Green River Review and the De Kalb Literary-Art Journal. He is a critic as well as a poet.

The MPC bookstore, located in the new College Center, is open to the public from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m., and 6 to 9 p.m. weekdays except Fridays, when there are no evening hours.

Bob Wood Reports

Assembly Bill No. 293 by Assemblymen Leo Ryan of Burlingame and John Stull of Leucadia calls for teachers dismissal proceedings to be heard by a "professional competency panel" comprised of one member selected by the school board and a hearing officer from the State Office of Administrative Procedure. The panel's decision would be binding and either party could appeal for review by the courts as prescribed under existing law.

In addition, the measure would require schools to develop prescribed evaluation and assessment guidelines to measure teacher competency and rate performance annually.

Although the bill as of this writing has not cleared the Education Committee, I understand from the chairman that with the amendments the powerful California Teachers' Association has dropped their opposition. If this is true it would appear the measure would have a good chance for passage on the Assembly floor.

I have received a considerable number of letters on the teacher tenure issue, both pro and con, since mentioning the subject in this column a few months ago.

Since that time numerous measures have been introduced to clarify procedures, protect teachers and give school boards the powers to maintain teaching standards. In California today, a public school teacher is guaranteed lifetime tenure after a three-year probationary period unless he or she violates certain codes of professionalism, morality or competency.

However, no universal guidelines for measuring teacher performance exist. Currently, if a school board wants to dismiss a tenured teacher on grounds of incompetency, the matter is referred (usually) to a superior court judge equipped with little evidence upon which to base his decision.

A bipartisan resolution of the problem would appear to be in the making.

VW People Attend Center

Although it looks very little like a traditional schoolhouse, the Reynold C. Johnson headquarters at Pleasanton buzzes like a university when it comes to learning about Volkswagens.

Reynold C. Johnson Company is the northern California, northern Nevada and Utah Volkswagen distributor. They train personnel from 60 authorized VW dealerships in those areas.

When Volkswagen was introduced in the United States, it was felt that a strong service and parts organization was a must. The VW factory sent 32 service engineers and two parts representatives around the United States with mechanical data and spare parts to begin training.

Today, 20 years and four million Volkswagens later, VW still places great emphasis on training. Service training remains the prime objective. Sales, parts and business management personnel have their share of school time, of course.

Headquarters for mechanical training at Reynold C. Johnson Company's facility in Pleasanton is the 30,000 square-foot Training Center. The building was designed with six service classrooms, laboratories, equipped with the latest in automotive equipment, a "floating room" for a Schenk Dynamometer and an auditorium for meetings of up to 100 people.

Classes are held in general repairs, fuel injection, transmission, electrical trouble shooting and repair, front axle, air-conditioning and heating, diagnosis and key personnel subjects including service organization, customer relations, management and warranty.

The Training Center is also equipped with one of this nation's most sophisticated training areas on Porsche and Audi vehicles, which are distributed by a Reynold C. Johnson's subsidiary, Porsche Audi West Inc.

Four technical instructors under a service training manager comprise the present teaching staff at Pleasanton. The training manager works with other members of the service department to evaluate the effect of service schooling in the field and develops classes to strengthen any weak service areas.

There are over 1,000 VW mechanics in the three-state area.

Brewery Works To Improve Air Pollution

Lucky Breweries has launched a program to reduce exhaust emissions from company cars and trucks 60 per cent, President Peter N. T. Widdington announced recently.

Lucky, first American brewer to recycle all its bottles and cans, has already installed smog-reducing systems on 30 vehicles and plans to modify its entire fleet.

In the last six months, the brewery has installed clean-burning propane systems on 12 cars, 13 delivery trucks, two fork-lifts--and even an industrial floor scrubber and two yard vacuums.

Widdington said the company is also working with propane-injection systems and turbochargers for diesel-powered highway tractors.

Bert Todd, who heads Luck's transportation department, said the sharp reduction in emission from Lucky's new "clean-air" fleet is attributable not only to propane, but to an advanced, highly efficient fuel-induction system as well.

Todd said Allied Propane Service of Richmond contributed heavily to the development of Lucky's clean-air program.

Stanley M. Teaderman, president of Allied, said extensive testing by the manufacturers of the carburetion equipment used by Lucky showed an average reduction of hydrocarbon emissions exceeding 60 per cent from gasoline carburetion; nitrogen oxides, 53 per cent and carbon monoxide, 60 per cent.

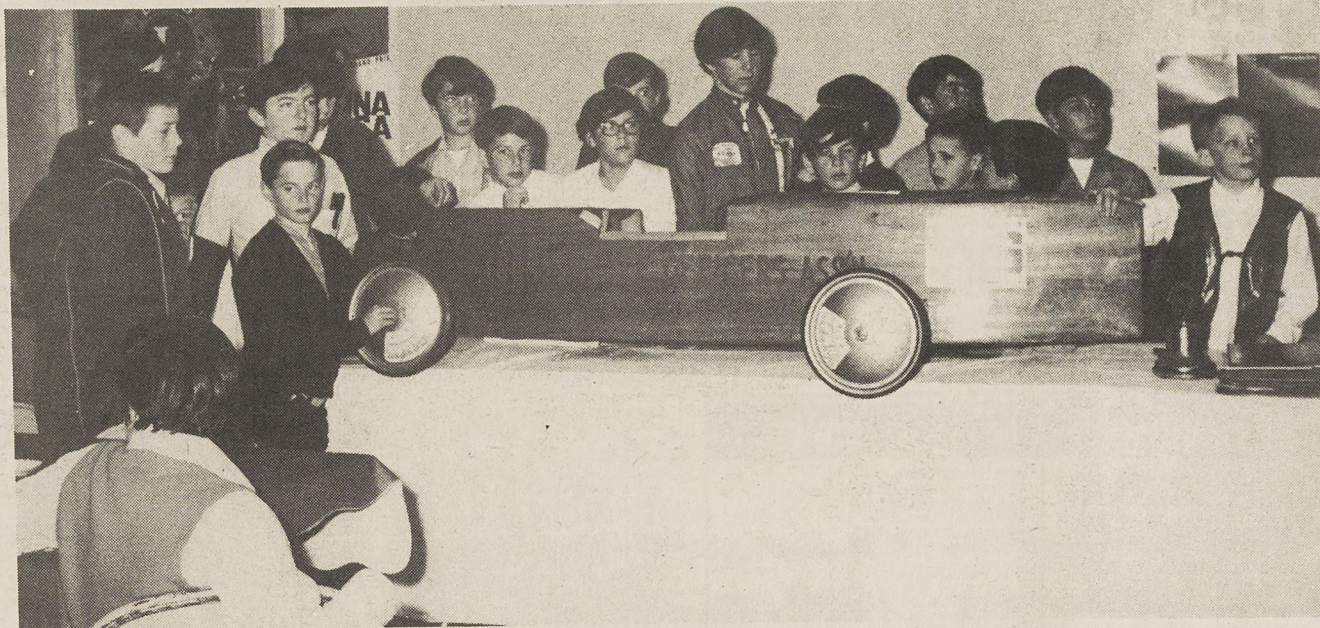

Widdington said the California Air Resources Board recorded even better results in recent tests of vehicles using the same carburetion equipment.

"In fact, when my personal propane-powered car was tested recently," said Widdington, "we hope our efforts will encourage other companies to consider similar steps. Collectively, operations of large fleets could do a lot to reduce air pollution."

"For example, let's assume that four-million of the 14-million cars and trucks in California are commercially owned vehicles."

"If only one million of those commercial vehicles were converted to propane, the impact on the smog problem could be substantial."

The brewery president said

TOP DRIVER - Mark Christensen (center with jacket patch) recently appeared in Carmel Valley to tell this group of interested youngsters about his adventures in last year's Soap Box Derby in Akron, Ohio, where he was participant. All he had to do to be in derby was sign up for race, build his car (shown above) and win Santa Cruz Soap Box Derby. For his accomplishment, Mark won trophy, $500 savings bond and trip to Derby Town in Akron. Young men 11 through 15 are eligible for race. All they have to do is take their parents down to Roller Chevrolet, 655 Munras in Monterey and sign up to race July 18 at Laguna Seca Raceway. For more information, call 375-5115.

Asian Model T 'Just An Idea' Of Henry Ford II

A low-cost version of the Model T Ford -- priced at $800 to $1,000 -- may become the leading vehicle of transportation in seven countries, according to the Chinese Information Service of Taiwan's Los Angeles office.

The seven areas are Malaysia, Thailand, Singapore, the Philippines, Australia, New Zealand and Taiwan.

On his recent visit to Taiwan to explore the possibility of investment in auto parts and assembly plants, Henry Ford II is reported to have said the proposal to build modern-day version of the old Model T "is just an idea," but enthusiasm in Taiwan circles is reported to be widespread.

Under the proposal, each area would have its own assembly plant, to produce cars with parts supplied by other areas. Close cooperation of the various governments would be necessary, according to the auto magnate, because of tax and import duty systems.

Ford said he did not rule out the possibility of making investment in Taiwan for an assembly plant. However, at present, nothing firm has been decided.

Ford's proposal also included cooperation with Taiwan automakers to build inexpensive cars for overseas markets. Minister of Economic Affairs Y.S. Sun of the government at Taiwan is reported to favor the Ford proposal. He said the plan is now being carefully weighed, because there are already five plants of various sizes manufacturing cars in Taipei.

"The domestic market is too small to accommodate new plants unless the products are primarily for export," said Sun. He added that the government is considering the lifting of its protective wingover Taiwan's auto industry by the lifting of its car import control.

"This would stimulate the local industry to seek improvement through competition," he said.

If the Ford plan materializes, millions of Asians will have all-purpose cars to fit their slim pocketbooks.

ONE FOR WOMEN'S LIB

According to Dr. Hardin Jones, noted authority on longevity, a married Swedish woman living on a farm who doesn't smoke will live about 35 years longer than an unmarried single male who is a heavy smoker living in New York City.

his company intends to share its information on propane systems and other emission-reducing equipment with other fleet operators.

As with Lucky's recycling program, Widdington said, propane conversion represents another way private industry can help make environmental improvements now -- without waiting for legislation, technological advances and other influences for change.

Todd expects to recover the propane-conversion cost of $425 per vehicle in less than three years through reduced operating expenses.

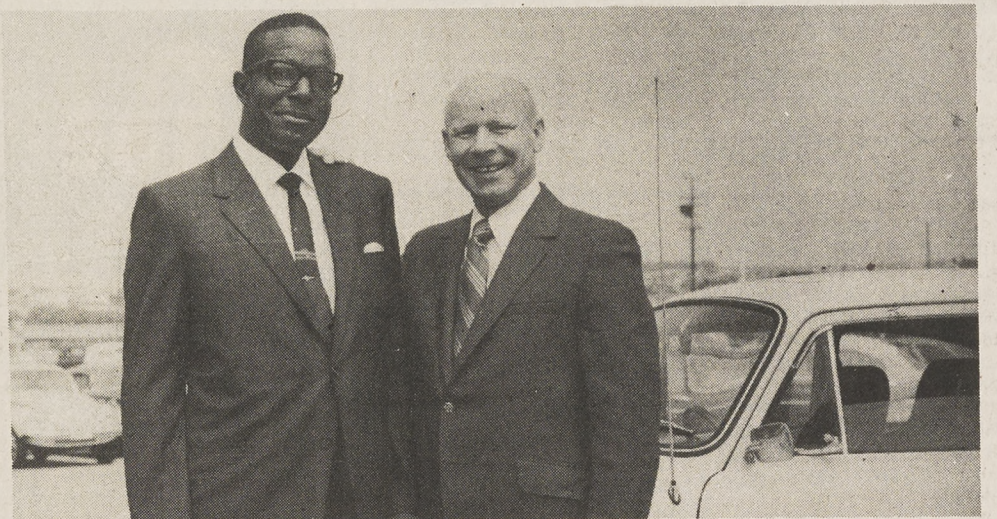

Lucky's cars and trucks use about 10 per cent more propane than they did as gasoline-powered vehicles. But the higher consumption is more than offset by a saving of about five cents a gallon for propane, Todd said.

"Moreover, owners of propane-fueled vehicles certified by the state are exempt from the six-cents-per-gallon tax."

"That gives propane an edge of more than 10 cents a gallon over gasoline."

Teaderman said maintenance costs are also reduced. "Because propane burns cleaner, engines last longer. Engines maintenance and overhauls are cut in half, and oil and filters can be used three to five times longer than normal and spark-plug life is at least doubled."

ON HIS WAY - Johnnie L. Welch (left), of Wester Volkswagen, was congratulated recently by Walt Boyer, general sales manager at Wester, upon his selection as winner of Volkswagen Employee Recognition Award. Welch is now touring Germany with thirty-one other winners of award. Dale Lovell, new car salesman for Wester, was also given award, but was unable to make trip.

Baha Burger Wins Contest

An independent panel of judges sampled hamburgers by over 100 Santa Clara County restaurants and drive-ins in search of the "best burger" to be found in this valley. Their choice, in each of three price categories, was based on meat quality and flavor balance...with additional consideration to size, appearance and presentation.

Only restaurants entered by readers, when the contest was announced late last year, were considered.

The size was measured by "pattieweight" (Pwt.) - a word specially coined for this contest, meaning weight of the beef patty alone, after cooking. "After cooking" is significant, for fat content varies greatly in various grades of ground beef and much of the fat is lost in the cooking. Restaurants usually advertise the weight of their hamburgers before cooking, which means little when the fat content is high.

Presentation, which includes cleanliness of the premises, also had a somewhat greater influence on the judges than had been anticipated. While the vast majority of the restaurants visited measured up to standards, not all did. The judges refused to recommend a few places where they found the tableware spotted with baked-on remnants of hamburgers past. Happily, these cases were infrequent.

After months of eating hamburgers, the judges arrived at the following decision: Winner class III (Over $1) - Original Joe's 301 S. First Street, San Jose.

Original Joe's winning burger is priced at $1.50 and weighs 9-1/2 ounces net after charcoal broiling with chopped onions. The owners use only choice beef and grind their own chuck at the restaur-rant.

Winner: Class II (50¢ to $1) Kirk's Drive Inn 2388 S. Bascom San Jose.

Kirk's Drive Inn winning burger is priced at 80¢ and weighs 4-1/2 ounces after broiling over Collier's charcoal briquets. It has no oil. The owner uses well-trimmed ground sirloin steak and has eight bowls of condiments available for help-yourself service.

Winner: Class I (Under 50¢) - Baha Burger 7th & Monterey Road Gilroy and 2008 Fremont Seaside.

Baha Burgers are tiny drive-ins managed by Alfonso Tamayo. Their winning burger, priced at 35¢ and weighing 2 ounces after cooking, is a beef patty served on an oversized bun with fresh lettuce and a massive tomato slice.

The Seaside POST - News Sentinel takes this opportunity to congratulate our own Baha Burger for its excellent service to this community and to the many travelers who patronize their establishment.
